

GI Girard Insists Killing Was Accidental

AMERICAN EXPECTS FAIR TRIAL IN JAPAN

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan (Friday) (AP) — U. S. Army Specialist 3/C William Girard said Friday the fatal shooting for which he faces trial in Japanese court was "a complete accident."

Girard denied charges, specified in a Japanese indictment, that he had enticed a Japanese woman collecting shells to her death.

He said "I did not scatter any shells to lure Mrs. Nak Sakai, 46, onto an Army firing range."

Girard, in his first news conference since he came under investigation for the Jan. 30 shooting on the range, said he expects a fair trial in Japanese courts, but declined to comment whether he would have preferred to be tried by a U. S. military court-martial.

Frequent Prompting

Frequently prompted by his U. S. Army legal adviser, Maj. Stanley Levin of Los Angeles, Girard said he appreciated the help he is getting from people in his home town of Ottawa, Ill., who are protesting the U. S. decision to allow him to be tried by Japan.

However, he declined to say whether he feels he needs the help.

Levin added that lawyer Earl Carroll, who filed a Washington habeas corpus suit, "was told that both Girard and I share the opinion that he will receive a fair trial in Japan."

Hearing Granted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for William S. Girard, young American soldier who has become an international issue, launched a court action and other moves Thursday to prevent him from being tried by a Japanese court.

Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarragh signed an order directing that Girard "not be delivered to custody or control of any foreign government or power" pending hearing next Tuesday on an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

The judge rejected a request of Atty. Earl J. Carroll of New York and Dayton M. Harrington of Washington for an immediate order requiring that Girard be brought home and "produced in this court."

Meanwhile, Atty. James C. Reynolds and Elliott Young, retained by Girard's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Girard of Ottawa, Ill., flew here from Peoria seeking reversal of the decision to turn the GI over to Japanese authorities. Girard is charged with causing the death of a Japanese woman who was scavenging on a military firing range.

Flying To Japan

The Army announced late Tuesday that its assistant judge advocate general will fly to Japan immediately to "insure that Girard's legal rights are fully protected."

In announcing the departure of Brig. Gen. Charles L. Decker, one of the Army's senior legal officers, Secretary Wilber Brucker said this action "is in consonance with the responsibility of the Department of the Army."

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Schoepell (R-Kan.), former University of Nebraska football player, joined the growing criticism of the decision giving jurisdiction to Japan.

"Could Be Your Son"

"The decision should shock the conscience of every American citizen," Schoepell said. "It is William Girard today. It could be your son tomorrow..."

"Does a boy who has been forced into the armed services and forced to go overseas also surrender all the rights, privileges and immunities of a citizen of the United States guaranteed him under the constitution?"

Judge McGarragh's court-room, Carroll said Girard was being made "a sacrificial lamb merely for the purpose of appearing" Japan.

"This boy is having all of his constitutional rights stripped away from him," Carroll said.

If Girard is tried in a Japanese court, Carroll said, we are setting a principle that will apply to every country of the world, even to Saudi Arabia where a boy stealing $5 may have his hands cut off or his ears cut off."

Carroll called the Japanese woman Girard is accused of killing a "trespasser," and said the shooting was accidental.

5 Teenagers Killed, 2 Hurt In Car Crash

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (AP) — Five teenagers, including 15-year-old twins, were killed Thursday night in an auto wreck in suburban White Oak borough. Two others, including the driver, were badly hurt.

The driver, 16-year-old Bruce Wessell of East McKeesport, said his auto, a 1956 convertible, was forced from the highway by an oncoming car and plunged down a 50-foot embankment and hit a tree.

The seven occupants were spilled from the machine as it rolled over and over.

The accident occurred on McKee Road running between Route 30 and White Oak about 12 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. "Bodies were scattered all over" said patrolman John Salopek of White Oak who was among the first to reach the scene.

Nebraska Builder

There could not have been a happier choice for the award of "Nebraska Builder" at the commencement exercises of the University of Nebraska next Monday than George W. Holmes, a distinguished, far-sighted builder. Banking in itself contributes to those qualities of caution and conservatism which can either baffle men's judgment or confer upon them a heritage of solid, substantial and far-sighted vision. Mr. Holmes throughout a busy life has looked ahead, not behind.

If in a spirit of modesty he might undertake self-analysis, we think he would confess to a great enduring faith in his own community and in the state where he has chosen to spend his life. It made no difference whether his thought was centered upon steps that he recognized were essential to the progress of the capital of Nebraska, or in the broader sense, the improvement of the state, he has always been willing to do his part and in the largest sense to lend

A Case For More Light

One Nebraska veterans organization preparing to convene this week-end has said that it would give consideration to a resolution protesting the government's decision to let Japan bring to trial G.I. William C. Girard on charges of manslaughter in the killing of a Japanese woman on an Army range in Japan.

It is an example of the deep and disturbed feelings that have been aroused throughout the nation over the action of the administration which, to say the least, is one of most curious connotations. It raises more the question of expediency than justice and asks just how far is the administration prepared to go to shore up its diplomatic front.

In a Washington today in which the public is not always taken into full confidence on government action the case of William Girard seems to operate in two areas. In the first he was at the outset held answerable to the Army for committing an act resulting in the death of a Japanese who was trespassing on Army property — property that is not under the jurisdiction of Japanese courts. The simple answer to that encouragement to anything building the state. It might be highways on one occasion, the parks of Lincoln on another, beautification of the campus and adequate financial support to the University—whatever was deserving and whatever made Lincoln and Nebraska a better place in which to live had the full and hearty support of Mr. Holmes.

There is another quality in this Nebraska builder—a recognition and an award which is the highest non-academic honor to be conferred upon anyone—for which his friends can be eternally grateful. Kindness and thoughtfulness have graced a busy life. No matter how many details drew his attention, Mr. Holmes has always had the time for a warm-hearted, cheerful smile and greeting to a host of friends and acquaintances.

The recognition that comes to him is so well deserved.

Trujillo Got Sugar Quota Pushed Up

WASHINGTON — Here is more of the inside story of how Dictator Trujillo, sometimes called the Caesar of the Caribbean, got his quota for sugar imports into the U. S. A. increased at the expense of Louisiana, the Rocky Mountain states, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Mexico, and Peru.

As already reported, Trujillo had enjoyed friendly relations with President Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore, Secretary Dulles' son-in-law, Robert Hinshaw, and Henry Holland, ex-assistant secretary of state for Latin America.

But although the State Department recommended an increased sugar quota, it's up to Congress to authorize it. So the proposal was sent to the House Agriculture Committee for action.

Normally, the committee hesitates to increase foreign sugar quotas because it hurts American sugar beet and cane sugar growers. But shortly before the vote, Trujillo chartered a Pan American clipper to fly committee members to the Dominican Republic for a royal visit.

The congressmen were Trujillo's guests at the ritzy hotel Jaragua on the seashore, toured the island in style, stopped at such places as Boca Chica, a fancy sea-side resort, Hotel Hamaca, an exclusive beachclub hotel located on a natural lagoon three miles long. They were wined and dined by everyone from Trujillo down, and whisked around the island in an 18-car caravan with police escort.

Chairman Harold Cooley of North Carolina was too busy to go, but sent his sister, Mrs. Mabel Downey, with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cooley, instead.

"Why, hi there, Pat," he said to Patrick Hillings. "You've put on some weight."

"Yes, I have put on a few pounds, Mr. President," replied the Californian. "I guess it's due to the Eisenhower prosperity."

Other members of the House Agriculture Committee who accepted Trujillo's invitation were:

Rep. and Mrs. W. R. Poage (D., Tex.); Rep. and Mrs. Tom Abernethy (D., Miss.) and their two children, Tommy and Gail; Rep. and Mrs. Pat Jennings (D., Va.); Rep. and Mrs. Henry Dixon (R., Utah); Rep. and Mrs. John Watts (D., Ky.); Rep. and Mrs. Harland Hagen (D., Cal.); Rep. Victor Anfuso (D., N. Y.); Congresswoman Coya Knutson (D., Minn.); plus then-Congressman and Mr. Harold Lovre (R., S. D.) and their daughter, Sandra.

KEE'S FOOD INSPECTED

What GOP congressmen didn't know about their impromptu box luncheon with the President was that the Secret Service ran a security check on his food. He and ex-Speaker Joe Martin were handed specially marked boxes containing chicken, potato salad, etc., which had been carefully examined for possible poison.

What the congressmen did know was that Ike never exuded more political charm or savvy. If he had started exuding a couple of months earlier he might have won his battle of the budget. At this late date he probably won't.

The budget battle wasn't mentioned specifically, but the President talked about practically everything else, from his golf game to the farm program. And he made a point of calling most of the Republican congressmen by their first names.

"Why, hi there, Pat," he said to Patrick Hillings. "You've put on some weight."

"Yes, I have put on a few pounds, Mr. President," replied the Californian. "I guess it's due to the Eisenhower prosperity."

Public Not Behind Ike On Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON — The unseasonable weather in the Midwest and Southwest is creating in those areas a groundswell of protest against further H-bomb testing.

Angry ranchers and farmers who are beset by tornadoes and floods are writing to their congressmen in very strong terms about the situation. They point out their relative nearness to the tests in New Mexico. Some are already positive that their weather troubles arise from the tests; others only suggest that Congress ought to satisfy itself on the question instead of accepting administration reassurances at face value.

This is the issue Adlai Stevenson raised with signal little success in his campaign for the presidency last year. President Eisenhower opposed Stevenson's view then and at his press conference this week still seemed to be satisfied with the protesting arguments made to him by the only person to whom he listens on atomic matters: Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The present hearings by a congressional atomic energy subcommittee on the dangers of fallout from atomic tests are also beginning to capture the imagination of the public. It is natural that many women should be writing the "stop, look and listen" letters which are being received by members of Congress. The president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs has said publicly that perhaps we should consider halting the tests.

A Texas congressman of sane and good repute insists that his correspondents on this complex subject are not crackpots or the lunatic fringe. He describes them as sensible people in his district who do not readily become ex-credited.

It may be that improvement in the weather and the prestige of the President will have a calming effect. But it seems certain that the members of the atomic committee are making a great deal of character for themselves by their attempts to get at the truth.

Their conclusions may pose the issue in some form that will put the administration thoroughly on the defensive.

The President has often shown uncanny skill in catching the mood of the public. But for health reasons he is leading a life which shields him from the pressures, the hopes and fears of the general run of people. In the difficult atomic field, too, it is hardly surprising that he should want to rely on his expert.

The trouble is that there are experts on the other side who disagree with Strauss. Considerable intolerance is on view, too. The President has shown himself to be furious with AEC Commissioner Thomas Murray, who has had the temerity to dispute Strauss in public. Many members of Congress are just as completely intolerant of Strauss.

BOB CONSIDINE

Confederate Boy Composer Of Taps

NEW YORK—Bob Ripley's last "Believe It Or Not" TV show was screened on the Tuesday before Memorial Day, 1949. He died within the week. It had featured the haunting origin of taps, the saddest, sweetest music ever written.

After the battle of Harrison's Landing, Va., in 1862, a young and badly wounded Confederate soldier lay moaning through the night—squarely between the entrenched lines of the blockade.

Finally, Capt. James Ellicombe, in command of Union forces along that line, could no longer bear the sobs of the wounded man. He crawled out at great personal danger and dragged the boy back to the federal lines. He began administering to him, and ordered a lamp in order to see better. The feeble light fell on the boy's face as he rested in the captain's lap. It was his son. The war had caught the boy at a Southern school, and he had enlisted with his friends.

The boy died. In his pocket was found a short musical composition for the bugle. And thus it was here, at this burial of a Confederate by the federals, that taps was first formally heard. Its plaintiveness had found a proper role.

On May 30, 1957, Douglas Storer, president of "Believe It Or Not," reproduced for the first time since 1947 this part of Rip's last broadcast, on NBC's "Nightline," conducted by Walter O'Keefe. Within the week, Ripley's surviving brother died.

(Copyright 1957, By INS, Inc.)

Believe it or not!

Gen. Frank Howley, the tough young American who stood up to the Russian brass as military commander in post-war Berlin, grieved over the death the other day of Frau Louis Schroeder, mayor of Berlin during some of the darker hours of the blockade.

"She was the real McCoy, a great woman," said Howley, now New York University's vice president for University Development. "When our troubles with the Russians started they refused to recognize her full authority. They insisted she was a deputy mayor. We said she was acting mayor—which she was.

"But she'd march right over there into the Russian section and tend to her constituents. I asked her one day how she got away with it. 'I just put on a different hat,' she said. Mrs. Schroeder did more to keep up the morale of the Berliner than any other individual.

She was the ultimate contradiction of the militant woman politician. She was attractive, calm, kind, gentle.

"She could always see a light even during the darkest part of the blockade. She could always get them to smile when they wanted to cry."

AF Warns Of Major Disruption In Plane Program If Cut Order Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force warned Thursday of a "major disruption" of its warplane and missiles programs if an administration order to restrict military spending within budget estimates for the next 12 months is upheld.

In a letter to Secretary of Defense Wilson, Air Force Secretary James Douglas said the aircraft and missiles programs may have to be reduced by approximately $3,400,000,000. The letter was dated May 31, but was made available by the Pentagon Thursday after portions had appeared in print and after Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) had made use of its contents in statements this week before the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee.

Symington, who has been sharply critical of administration defense policies, said in a statement Thursday that the Defense Department has taken "action to strait-jacket defense programs, and thereby try to squeeze them into a $3 billion dollar expenditures box."

He said witnesses told the Senate group that defense expenditures recently had been running at a rate of $2 billion dollars annually and that Wilson has issued directives to "reduce this program indirectly, through fiscal manipulation to $3 billion."

Douglas took specific issue with two directives issued by Wilson, on May 21 and 22. One of these informed the services that the administration would hold the Defense Department to the previously estimated total of $3 billion dollars in military spending for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The second forbade the services to order or commit themselves to buy any item for which appropriations were not already in hand.

The Army and the Navy acquiesced in this order against installment financing, but the Air Force protested.

In his letter to Wilson, Douglas urged that the spending objective for the next fiscal year be raised "to accommodate what we firmly believe is a hump in expenditures" that will level out at a lower rate by 1959.

Douglas wrote that he was "actually aware" of the problems created by increased military spending and said he had already taken steps to reduce immediate costs by stretching out some important aircraft programs.

Missiles

Douglas also told Wilson that the Air Force "may be required" to procure next year several items for which no new money requests were made in the 1958 budget. He cited the long range guided missile Navajo and the smaller Rascal missile as examples of weapons he said the Air Force wanted to spend money on.

The Wilson directive provided for exceptions to the ban on installment financing and instructed the services to submit specific items or weapons programs they believe should be excluded from any rigid interpretation of the order.

Dep. Defense Secretary Donald Quarles said Wednesday he believed the Wilson directive could be "worked out" so as to prevent "any great impact" on the Air Force.

Lincoln Man Said 'Improved' After Crash Near Waco

Lincoln Star Special

YORK, Neb. — A Lincoln man, Max Lehman, 69, of 3225 W. Pershing Rd., injured in a two-car mishap Tuesday, was reported "in satisfactory condition and improving" Thursday by a physician at the York General Hospital.

Lehman suffered fractured ribs, bruises and lacerations when his car left the road, hit a post and ran into an alfalfa field after it was in collision with a truck driven by Donald Butzke, 26, of Utica.

Both vehicles were traveling west on U. S. Highway 34, four miles east of Waco. Butzke, who was driving ahead of Lehman, attempted a left turn onto a county road just as Lehman was attempting to pass, officials said. The cars collided, sending both off the road. Butzke was treated for head lacerations at a Utica clinic.

This action removed 16 cabs from operation in Lincoln and left the city with one taxi service, Yellow Cab Co. which has 44 cabs.

Erwin E. Stube of the Yellow Cab Co. reported he has added 15 drivers to his force since the Checker Cab cancel order was issued. He said this made it possible to keep the company's cabs in operation more hours per day.

New Cab Application

Stube filed an application with the Railway Commission May 18 seeking authority to form a new cab company in Lincoln.

A second application was filed last Monday by Lincoln Cabs, Inc. seeking authority for a new cab company. The application was filed by William, Lois and Charles Denike.

The Commission has not yet set hearing dates on either application.

Mary Ann called at the Society to recover her pet.

U.N. Report On Halt Of Hungary Freedom Fight Rejects Soviet Excuses

... Assembly Session May Be Called

By PIERRE J. HUSS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS) — The draft of an official U.N. report on Russia's suppression of Hungary's freedom fight clearly rejects all Soviet excuses for intervening in what otherwise would have been a successful revolt against Communist tyranny.

A tentative version of the report's eight-page-long conclusions, obtained exclusively by International News Service, refutes point by point Kremlin claims that the uprising was "instigated and engineered" by the West in order to reimpose "Fascist" rule over Hungary.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold indicated Thursday an extraordinary meeting of the General Assembly may be called to weigh the anti-Soviet indictment. He told a news conference that reactions of member states to the report will determine the question of reconvening the Assemby breaking a window.

Expenses Listed—The Nebraska State Medical Assn. filed a statement of expenses for May with the secretary of state, listing $146.10. According to the statement, the expense was incurred in providing bus transportation and a dinner for members of the Legislature.

Talk On Legislature—Hugo Srb, clerk of the Nebraska legislature, will be the speaker at the Friday noon meeting of the Lincoln Cosmopolitan Club. He will make a comparison of unicameral and bicameral legislatures and will also discuss the importance of the legislative branch in good government.

Jewish History Lecture—Rabbi Wolfgang Hamburger of the South Street Temple will represent the Jewish Chautauqua Society as lecturer at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College in Kirksville, Mo., on June 19th. Rabbi Hamburger will address a morning assembly on the subject, "Jewish History from the year 1 to 1000 A.D."

Settlement Approved—A $775 lump sum settlement to John E. Caldwell of 601 So. 27th from Charles Schneier & Sons, a Lincoln wholesale house, for Oct. 4, 1956, back injury during employment as warehouseman, has been approved by the Lancaster District Court.

Trusses fitted and repaired. Donley Stahl Co., 2421 "O."—Adv.

The following points are included in the draft of conclusions:

—The "United" Hungarian people rose against Kremlin domination of their homeland in an effort to obtain a democratic government.

—The revolution was a "spontaneous" uprising that succeeded in ousting tyrannical leaders until the second Soviet invasion of Nov. 3-4 whipped the people into temporary obedience.

—One of the main reasons for the revolt was the "situation of subordination of the Hungarian government in relation to the government of the USSR."

The "tendencies" of the revolution indicate that the future political organization of Hungary would have been based on "socialism of a democratic character" but with most of the Kremlin's concept of "socialism" thrown out.

—One of the influences in the movement of Oct. 23 (the day of the first student demonstrations against the Budapest regime) was the "news" that Poland had broken away from the Soviet shackles.

Deportations

Deportations of Hungarians to Soviet prisons took place "in considerable numbers" despite all the Russian denials.

—It is difficult to make a "concrete judgment" on whether any Hungarian government requested Red army troops to quell the revolt. The report does state that Premier Imre Nagy never tendered such an invitation even when threatened at gunpoint by former Communist party boss Erno Gero.

The Janos Kadar puppet regime has no support from the Hungarian people and maintains its position only through the might of the Soviet armies.

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — Checks amounting to $137,586 to cover 73 acreage reserve soil bank agreements in Cheyenne County will be mailed out next week.

There are 5,115.5 acres covered by acreage reserve agreements in Cheyenne County.

Biggest individual check will be for $12,460.50. It will go to a farmer who sowed 426 out of his 547 acres wheat allotment into the land.

Acreage reserve payments are computed on the basis of $1.17 per bushel (60 per cent of parity) times the normal production of the land.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

At rare intervals, a TV signal sneaks around the mountain and I get a snowy picture of the rare and wonderful world we live in. By tipping aerials and holding the TV set out the window, I got in on "The Big Story" the other night. As you probably know these programs concern the journalism business. Great things happen to serious reporters.

These things never happened to me. I spent my journalistic days interviewing talking dogs. Some of them were real chatterboxes. But not what you would call a BIG story.

The program was sponsored however, by a dog food. (You would think these people of all people would think dogs were a big story. But no. It is all stories of reporters with murderers and such.)

Anyway, that is not what I was about to say. What I was about to say was the sponsor says his dog food makes dogs eager to eat.

"Makes dogs eager eaters!" says the announcer. He said it with vim. Like he was announcing a four-alarm fire. Or that Aunt Minnie just fell off the dock. They even had some dogs talking.

"It makes me an eager eater," said the dog.

I imagine the ordinary TV viewer looks at this and says, "My, isn't that cute, making like the little dog talks." He then goes out and buys some dog food.

To a man who has talked back and forth with hundreds of talking dogs, this was pretty old hat. The sponsor's message was lost on me. I have a dog. An eager eating dog. I should buy food to make this dog more eager. With the present price of horsemeat?

My dog is a boxer by name of Carmichael. That is his Sunday name. I call him Mike. I claim to be somewhat of an expert on this dog's eating.

This dog was born eager. He grew up eager and, now with some mileage on him, he is still eager. He has given up a lot of the more strenuous sports. But he sticks to eating as though it were going out of style tomorrow and he had to hurry.

This dog puts away two pounds of horsemeat a day.

That is just the snack. Even so, you figure that out over nine years and this dog has eaten practically an entire cavalry regiment!

As you know, a boxer has an enormous mouth. Red with black lips and little scuppers for the drool to run down. Very gaudy. Two pounds of horsemeat go down in two bites. Snap. Snap. This is the first course.

Mike then lies down. He sighs. When a boxer sighs, the whole house shakes. It is a terribly sad, gusty sigh. After a while he gets up and paces. Can't lie down on an empty stomach. That is the act. When the garbage goes out, Mike is first man out the door. Prancing, dancing. He will eat ANYTHING that is left. I kid you not. He eats lettuce, chow mein, beets, potatoes, potato salad, minestrone, pate de foie gras, old shoes, leather buttons (preferably with a little gravy). I have seen him polish off a coffee can full of bacon grease.

An eager dog. Not a big story but an eager one.

'Best School Financing At Local Level'

... Harrison Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harrison (R-Neb) told Secretary of Welfare Folsom Thursday that the best financing and control of schools "is at the local level."

"If the responsibility to act is taken away from the community," Harrison said, "the principal result will be a lack of interest in education on the part of the local citizens."

The Nebraska Congressman said only 26.2 per cent of the residents in the state's 3rd Congressional District approved a "large scale plan for federal aid to states for school construction" in his recent questionnaire.

"People feel better about sacrificing money for schools," Harrison said, "if they know that they are still responsible for electing the people who are to administer the school program."

An End-Of-School Celebration

If you are a junior high school student there is nothing quite like the last day of school in June — and if you are a teenage girl, there is nothing quite so much fun as a slumber party. Miss Jane Johnsen, a seventh grader at Millard Leffler School, combined the two ingredients for a most successful party on Wednesday evening when she was hostess to a group of friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Johnsen.

The executive board members of the Lincoln Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a 7 o'clock meeting Friday evening at the home of Miss Mabel Clements, 1649 Vine.

Toastmistress Club Meeting

Mrs. Lydia Martens presided at the Monday evening meeting of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club, held at the Capital Hotel. Topic mistress during the dinner was Miss Joan Williams, and responding with short talks were Miss Mercedes Ames, Mrs. Margaret Foster, Miss Estaline Porter and Mrs. Bert Johnston.

Miss Edith Lumsden led the group in a discussion on the aims and objects of the Toastmistress organization, which was followed by a revision of the club by-laws.

Bean Hole Beans?

What in the world are they?

Here's what! Now—in a can—beans with that true Northwoods flavor

HERE'S THE ORIGINAL LUMBERJACK RECIPE:

Place a large iron pot in a hole in the ground.

Fill with a layer of beans, then a layer of pork—another layer of beans—another layer of pork—add molasses and brown sugar.

Seal pot tightly. Burn wood over pot. Pipe coals closely around. Bake for 12 hours.

Eat for breakfast, dinner or supper.

BEAN HOLE BEANS, the one and only to capture that real outdoor taste of "cooked-in-the-ground" beans. Here's the same tremendous taste that satisfies the "biggest appetites on earth"—up in the lumber camps in the Tall Tree country. Just let your family get their teeth into these beans; there are no other beans in the world like them. Look for the can with the green tree on it for genuine BEAN HOLE BEANS. Distributed by men who know beans best—STOKELY-VAN CAMP, makers of Van Camp's famous Pork and Beans. They're at your grocer's now!

There's only one flavor like this... now BEAN HOLE BEANS have captured it in a can for you!

Hearty Congratulations

Class of '57 Southeast High!

Truly yours is "A great school growing greater" . . . and our best wishes are extended to each graduate who contributed to the outstanding development of the newest public high school in Lincoln. We, at GOLD'S offer our most sincere wishes that this Graduation Day may be the beginning of a lifetime of success and happiness.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

Due, no doubt, to the current summer weather, vacations and house guests seem to be the main topics of discussion in South Hills and Kessler Heights. But in spite of the fact that the coming week will be filled with families leaving for all points, east, west, north and south, we did find news of coffees, a bridge party and other informal get-togethers.

SOUTH HILLS

First on our list of travelers are Capt. and Mrs. John Mattioli, Barry, Vicki and Joni, who will leave on Saturday for Pittsburgh, Pa. The Mattioli's will spend a month touring in the East and visiting relatives.

Betrothal Announced

MISS DOROTHY ELAINE ROBINSON

Mr. and Mrs. Cash Robinson of Pleasantville, Ia., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elaine, to Arnold Bridges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bridges of Lincoln.

No wedding date has been named.

Miss Bridges is a former student at Union College. Her fiance is a graduate of Union College and now is stationed with the army in Washington, D. C.

Gustafsons returned to Cozad on Sunday.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Our little red book tells us that on Tuesday evening the James Peerman home was the setting for a neighborhood bridge eightsome. On hand for the get-together were Mrs. George Holden, Mrs. Price May, Mrs. Don Hamilton, Mrs. Phillip James, Mrs. Robert George, Mrs. Marvin Garber and a guest, Mrs. Leonard Aeschliman.

And off for points in Idaho and Utah were Capt. and Mrs. Lyle Knight and their children, George, Debbie and Jimmy. The Knight family left Monday and will return to the suburb in about 10 days.

Vacation-bound last week was a male foursome, Don Miller, Gerald Barrett, Robert Brooks and Bill Kipper, who spent a week fishing at Sioux Narrows in Ontario, Canada. We understand the distaff side of the four families has been busy trying the assortment from their husbands' catch since they returned home on Wednesday.

The next best thing to a vacation is entertaining guests—or maybe we should say they are equally enjoyed by suburbanites. Anyway, on the South Hills' guest list this week is the visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Thompson, and she is Mrs. Thompson's sister, Miss Marilyn Gustafson of Cozad. To compliment her sister, Mrs. Thompson entertained at a coffee on Wednesday morning when the guest list included Mrs. William Baker and Leigh Ann, Mrs. John Baker, Jay and Frederick and Mrs. Keith Christensen.

And also visiting at the Thompson home last weekend were Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson, who accompanied their daughter, Marilyn, to the South Hills Suburb for her extended visit. The

Federation Of Women's Clubs Calls For Maintenance Of Strong U.S. Force

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The General Federation of Women's Clubs, acting swiftly on a series of resolutions, Thursday called for maintenance of a strong U. S. armed force to deter war or to be ready for war should it "forced upon us."

The delegates left over for Friday's session a final pending resolution on limitation of election campaign expenditures.

Teacher Of Year, 69, Speaks 11 Languages; To Learn Twelfth

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Mrs. Ellie Lee Kahl, named teacher of the year Thursday, speaks 11 languages, but she won a trip to Scandinavia, a land whose language she doesn't know.

That didn't upset the sprightly 69-year-old, who said she'll learn InStride

A little lady wearing a pink hat and flowered print dress, she took all the unexpected honors in stride and calmly handled a news conference with some firm views about teaching and other topics.

On compulsory retirement for teachers at 65? "Rather silly," and then she added, "some of us still retain our minds. They again, of us are no good at 30."

Are teen agers different now from when she started teaching? They're "better now" and "more socially minded than the rest of us."

Is there more delinquency now? "No, I think we hear more about it." Children today, she told the reporter who asked the question, "don't do much more than you did when you were little," but there's more about it in the news-papers.

"If we're going to learn anything significant about other nations," she said, "we must learn their language . . . we should emphasize languages in our schools."

Can Point

If you want to buy a pack of cigarettes in a foreign country, you can point, she said, "but if you want to talk about their politics or their souls, you can't do it by pointing."

You can be sure, she added, she won't point if she takes the prize-winning trip to Scandinavia. "I don't believe in pointing."

Mrs. Kahl, of Phoenix, Ariz., a teacher since she was 17 except for six years—"I stopped off to get married"—and also a registered nurse, was the unanimous choice of the judges in the federation's contest for the outstanding teacher of the nation.

A native of Spartanburg, S. C., she has taught in high school and colleges on a diversity of subjects including chemistry, math, physics and Russian, which she said she learned from a Russian woman teacher in Arizona.

She said she had no idea why federation officials wanted her to come. They asked and "I came." She wasn't even sure she could get away from summer teaching commitments to make the tour abroad. The federation told her she could take it anytime.

The call for a strong preparedness program came after Vice President Nixon told the delegates Wednesday night that President Eisenhower's military budget and mutual security program are vital to the nation's defense.

The preparedness resolution declared "this nation should maintain its full military forces in adequate quality and numbers:

in strength and equipment to deter war in all forms or to achieve victory in waging either atomic or non-atomic war if such should be forced upon us."

The delegates, in another of eight resolutions adopted, went on record in favor of a federal poultry inspection system similar to that now in operation for meats.

They also urged a program for rehabilitation of prisoners and called for strict controls on roadside developments along the nation's super highways.

The delegates condemned the use of force or brutality or coercion on the part of an occupying power against a people seeking freedom.

A pending bill in Congress to make Dec. 7 preparedness day got support from the delegates. They also sought an annual "Teacher's Day" in honor of the nation's teachers.

At a panel discussion on education later, Martha A. Shull, president of the National Education Assn., said she was optimistic that the teacher shortage would be solved, because the American people are sitting up and taking notice of the schools now more than ever.

She suggested that those in the field of teacher education need to "take a whole new look at what is needed" to meet the demands of the second half of the 20th Century.

She suggested "a completely new approach as to how we are going to live in this world."

Paul H. Blaisdell of New York City, director of traffic safety for the Assn. of Casualty and Surety Companies, said the nation's highway ills can be cured by two main courses: driver education and re-education and strict law enforcement.

The four-day convention concludes its official sessions Friday with Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina scheduled to speak.

Unmoved

CHICAGO (AP) — Three gunmen hustled into a South Side branch of the Chicago blood donors service.

One of them shot Robert Price, 27, a laboratory technician, in the wrist when he was slow to raise his hands.

The robbers took $200 in cash and jewelry from members of the staff and left.

A donor, meanwhile, kept on giving blood.

Church Board Asks New Bethany Branch Library

The board of Bethany Christian Church, in a letter to the City Council, has urged construction of a new Bethany branch library.

In its letter, the board points out that Bethany has grown greatly in population over the past several years. The present branch, the letter said, is inadequate in space and facilities.

The letter suggests a new branch site on vacant lots north of Aylesworth and east of Cotner Blvd.

Social Security For Physicians Plan Is Ousted

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Medical Assn. House of Delegates Thursday rejected resolutions urging Social Security coverage for physicians. It said such coverage would "result in loss of freedoms impossible to reclaim."

The resolutions had been proposed by the New York and Connecticut delegations to the AMA's national convention.

The report recommending rejection of the proposed resolutions also spoke of "the actuarial instability of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program."

The House of Delegates approved resolutions endorsing the Jenkins-Keogh and Reed-Keogh bills which would permit self-employed physicians to set aside part of their income-before-taxes for a retirement plan. These resolutions were offered by the New York, California and Texas delegations.

Rejected also was a resolution submitted by the Tennessee delegation. It called for amendment of the federal Social Security laws so that congressional appropriations for public health would be allocated through the U. S. Public Health Service rather than through the Department of Welfare.

The delegates condemned the use of force or brutality or coercion on the part of an occupying power against a people seeking freedom.

A pending bill in Congress to make Dec. 7 preparedness day got support from the delegates. They also sought an annual "Teacher's Day" in honor of the nation's teachers.

At a panel discussion on education later, Martha A. Shull, president of the National Education Assn., said she was optimistic that the teacher shortage would be solved, because the American people are sitting up and taking notice of the schools now more than ever.

She suggested that those in the field of teacher education need to "take a whole new look at what is needed" to meet the demands of the second half of the 20th Century.

She suggested "a completely new approach as to how we are going to live in this world."

Paul H. Blaisdell of New York City, director of traffic safety for the Assn. of Casualty and Surety Companies, said the nation's highway ills can be cured by two main courses: driver education and re-education and strict law enforcement.

The four-day convention concludes its official sessions Friday with Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina scheduled to speak.

Army Has Missile For Earth Satellite But Can't Enter Race

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top scientist said Thursday the Army has created a special type missile which could be used for launching an earth satellite. But the Army says it hasn't been given any assignment to enter the race to outer space.

The scientist, who requested anonymity, said the device was developed several months ago at the Army's Huntsville, Ala., ballistic missile agency laboratory.

The Navy has been designated as the administrative agency to handle development and use of launching equipment for the earth satellite program, a part of the International Geophysical Year (IGY).

The scientist's remarks suggested the Army was ready and willing to enter the "Vanguard" satellite launching program if the Navy's efforts lagged.

Don't Have Mission

But when asked about this by a newsman, an Army spokesman made this reply:

"We do not have that mission. If we were given it we would, of course, give it our all."

"But we do not have it and we do not covet it."

At Huntsville, Ala., Dr. Werner Von Braun, head civilian scientist at the missile agency, was asked about the report of Army willingness to enter the satellite field. He said:

"It is a difficult thing for a team which has the lead in eggs not to get an opportunity to hatch at least one of them."

Von Braun's comment about a "lead in eggs" seemed to relate to the Army's effort in the ballistic weapon field.

The Army last Friday conducted a test at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile range in which it was reliably reported to have fired a Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) to a distance of 1,650 statute miles out into the Atlantic. To attain that range, the missile climbed to an altitude of about 700 miles, traveling at an average speed of about 5,500 miles per hour.

The Army made its first experiment under the Jupiter program last September, launching a complicated test device, which was not an actual missile, for a flight of more than 3,000 miles. Two subsequent tests produced only short flights lasting a half minute in one instance and a minute and a half in the other.

But last Friday's shoot was described by the scientist as that of an actual missile, although undoubtedly minus a warhead, and as one which was "100 per cent successful."

Against this record stands the failure of the Air Force to come with a successful flight of its own IRBM, the Thor, in three attempted firings.

Meanwhile, the Air Force has been pushing its effort to put one of its intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) into the air. The Air Force has two ICBM projects under way, the Atlas and the Titan. Latest report is that the Air Force may attempt an Atlas test launching Friday from the Cape Canaveral site, but the Air Force declines to confirm that report.

Air Force enthusiasts, sensitive about Army progress in the Ballistic missile race, contend the Army's Jupiter does not meet specifications for an intermediate range missile—that it utilizes three stages of rocket engines instead of a single stage. The Air Force proponents contend that three stages are for use in the 5,000-mile ICBM missile.

Behind all of this interservice contest is the order of Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, issued last fall, directing that the Army use ballistic missiles of no more than 200 miles range and leaving the Army without funds to continue its IRBM development after money now available is used up. This point will be reached about next October.
